Fecoam obtains the Responsible Communication Seal from the Official Association of Journalists

The Federation of Agrarian Cooperatives of Murcia (Fecoam), which groups 79 agrarian entities marketing the Autonomous Community, has committed to carry out a quality institutional communication and based on the ethical standards of journalism, as well as that said communication is managed by a qualified and collegiate professional. For all these reasons, the Official Association of Journalists of the Region of Murcia today granted Fecoam the Responsible Communication Seal.

The president of Fecoam, Santiago Martínez, upon receiving the Seal of Responsible Communication has declared that in this way he is committed to "the veracity and transparency of all the information that we issue from the Federation, thus providing a better service to our associates and to all the citizens of the Region ".

> Fecoam, with its 79 agrarian entities, in turn associates some twenty thousand farmers and ranchers.

For his part, J*uan Antonio De Heras, dean of the College of Journalists of the Region of Murcia, has expressed the importance that "an entity such as Fecoam, which represents more than twenty* thousand farmers in the Region of Murcia, maintain the commitment to offer society a truthful information and expressed from the journalistic rigor ".

YOU MAY ALSO LIKE:

??Fecoam calls for a national water pact to respond to water scarcity in its region

??Fecoam bets on new management systems to improve agricultural competitiveness