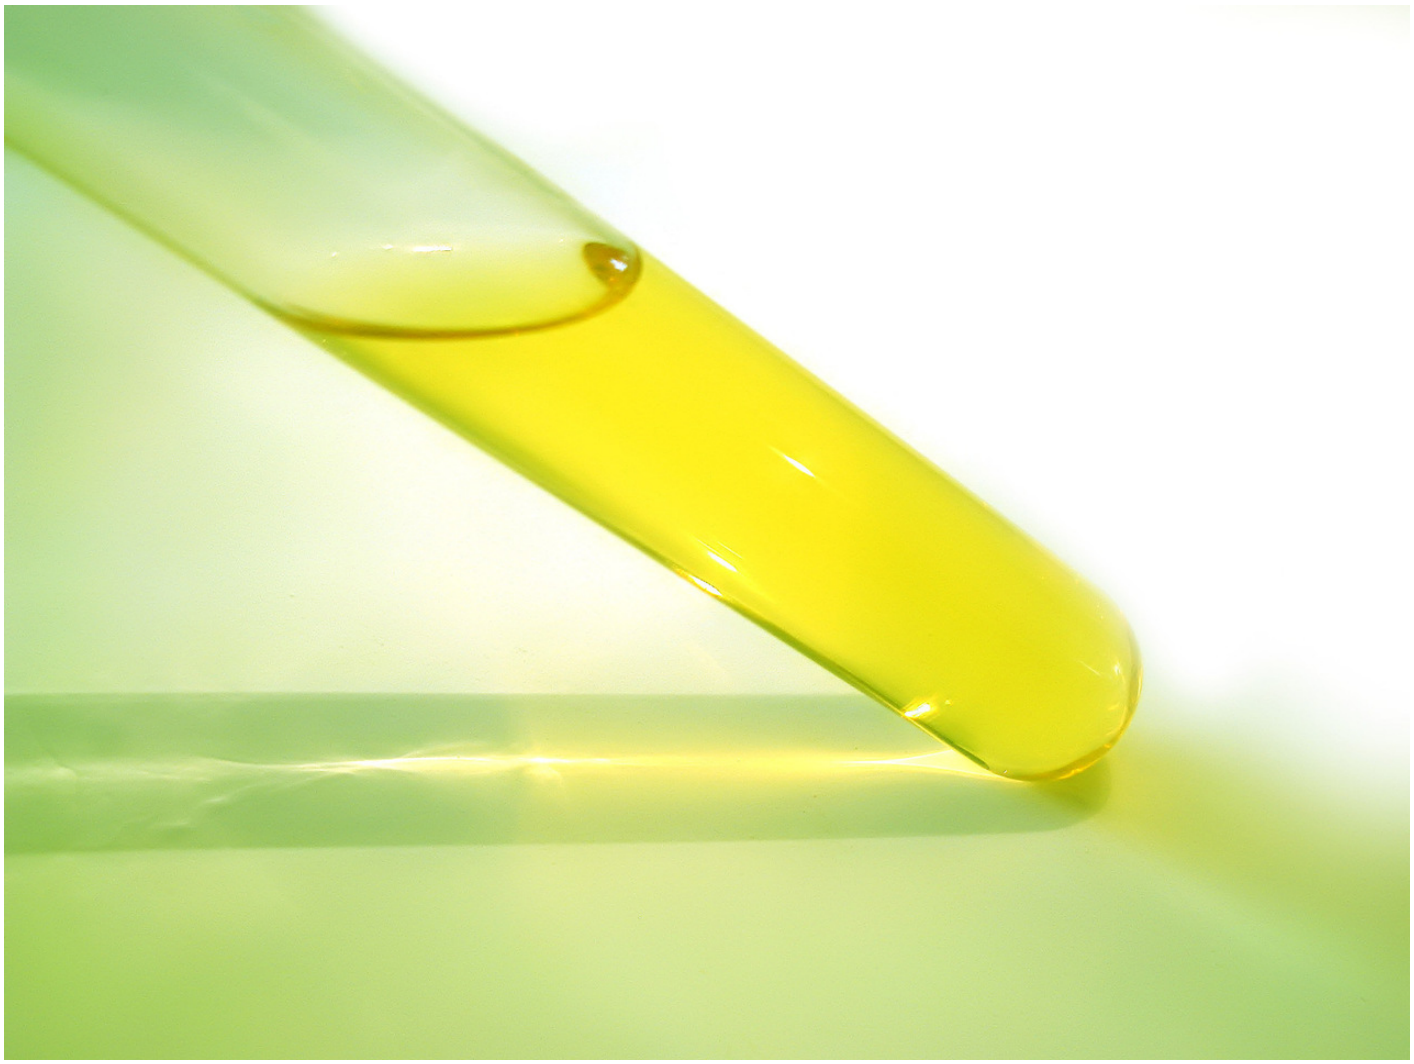
A workshop for experts in food microbiology



A workshop on "Rapid Methods and Automation in Food Microbiology (MRAMA)" will take place in November at the Autonomous University of Barcelona (UAB). It will take place in Cerdanyola del Valles, between 24 and 27. The audience it is intended consists of managers and technicians from industries, consultancies and agri-food laboratories, and other sectors (microbiological, clinical, pharmaceutical, cosmetic, chemical, environmental, etc.); veterinary inspectors and other staff of the administration; undergraduate and graduate students, technicians and university professors; staff from other research centers; etc.

The workshop will include practical sessions on laboratoriio for three days, workshops and conferences. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Daniel YC Fung (Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kansas, USA). During the conference, will involve eight speakers. There will also be exhibitions by 12 companies of microbiology. For more information, consult the page concerning the workshop on Food for Life Spain, and this other one at UAB.